

A short guide for Sp2ace

Co-funded by the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union

Basic Idea

The main aim of the project is to entirely transform the strategy of digital and e-learning adult training programmes via the exploitation of Game-based Learning and Serious Games in order to optimize learner engagement, and create a boredom-free training environment which promotes critical thinking and achievement of educational aims.

Development

The Game-Based Critical Learning Skills "Hackathon" is the core activity of the entire project. This is a creative problem solving event, ideally involving technology, comprising 4 distinctive phases of development.

The 4 phases of development

Think Tank

Creation of a Think Tank with stakeholders and partner training organizations (academic & vocational training), both in Greece and in Cyprus, in order to engage them in a critical discussion regarding the purpose and methodology of the entire project.

Open Day online event

An Open day online event where participants join and find out about the objectives of this initiative. Participants will be informed about the process, the key objectives to be reached, the suggested areas of innovation, existing challenges so far experienced in these fields, (adult education and gamification).

The Game-based Critical Learning Skills “Hackathon” event

This is the core activity of the entire project, where parallel workshops will take place (in Athens, Greece). Participants will be urged to work collaboratively with their peers, both in homogeneous or heterogeneous groups, in order to share their views and ideas addressing clearly the questions – challenges set by the project plus a reasonably specific proposed solution.

Transferability Kit

A transferability (T)-kit will be developed containing both the main project steps and the outcomes of the “Hackathon”.
